Exhibit A Scope of Work

1.0 PROJECT BACKGROUND AND INFORMATION

MSDGC is under two federal consent decrees to reduce sewer overflows caused by wet weather resulting in the District's Wet Weather Improvement Program (WWIP). The WWIP is a comprehensive multi-billion dollar effort to remedy discharges from MSDGC's wastewater collection system that occur when it rains. MSDGC's Watershed Operations (WO) division operates and maintains the wet weather assets constructed under the WWIP, specifically high-rate treatment facilities, real-time control facilities, and green infrastructure installations. Since these assets are built to address consent decree mandates, it is critical that they be maintained to the highest possible state of readiness and they operate as optimally as possible to reduce overflows. The Wet Weather Operational Optimization Program is the mechanism by which MSDGC ensures that its wet weather assets are operated and maintained be operated under dynamic and challenging wet weather conditions, and demonstrate their capabilities to achieve consent decree mandates. Such performance will ultimately reduce the need for additional sewer infrastructure, will reduce the overall cost of the WWIP, saving ratepayers tens of millions of dollars in construction costs.

As next steps, MSDGC will be advancing the capabilities of its Wet Weather SCADA system to further maximize available conveyance, storage, and treatment capacity, improve system alerting, further automate performance analysis and reporting, and incorporate redundancies in equipment and communications to ensure against system downtime. It is imperative that these services are executed to the maximum extent possible as these capability improvements offer the best opportunities for MSDGC to reduce future WWIP spending.

1.1 SCOPE OF SERVICES

Services Overview

The general services to be provided as part of Operational Optimization Program Management and Implementation may include the following:

1. Provide onsite management, oversight, and direction for the implementation of the Operational Optimization Program,
2. Develop SCADA screens in the GE IP Proficy system to meet the functional goals of the Program in all watersheds, including the development of screens for Muddy Creek and Little Miami watersheds, configuring SCADA system dynamos with the proper tags and the populating underlying SQL tables with site-specific geospatial, hydraulic and alarm threshold information, and accurately representing real-time water level visually within the dynamo and numerically (in relation to a common datum).
3. Perform necessary Wet Weather SCADA System data integration by working with the Remote Monitoring Program Manager to establish reliable communications with field equipment and then confirm proper connections with the SCADA system database,
4. Perform necessary control point integration activities by working with wet weather facility engineers and operators to confirm that control logic is properly programmed and implemented in the GE IP Proficy software system, selecting and configuring the

- appropriate I/O drivers to populate site-specific visualization screens, constructing the appropriate databases to include the proper tags in accordance with program and MSDGC tag naming conventions,
5. Use the Wet Weather SCADA System to demonstrate reliable remote operations of each wet weather facility,
 6. Develop and implement, and/or oversee the development and implementation of smart-logic (intelligence) to predict flows in areas of the collection system based on real time flow and level data throughout the collection system and use those predictions in coordinated control of wet weather assets in the watershed,
 7. Identify new strategies for the capture and reduction of overflows,
 8. Incorporate performance management strategies that enable the Wet Weather SCADA System to generate automated reports using established KPIs, and use past performance data to guide optimization of operational or maintenance activities,
 9. Implement and oversee protocols to review the history and details of rainfall/overflow events and make recommendations for operational changes, and
 10. Identify and train key MSDGC personnel to use and operate the Wet Weather SCADA System.

Specific activities for 2016 are estimated under the following tasks:

| Task 1: Program Management | $285,000 |
| <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Provide program management services that effectively coordinate the implementation of the Operational Optimization Program per direction of the MSD Project Manager. 2. Implementation and management of a continual monitoring program that alerts MSDGC personnel to system-wide failures and facility-based problems that impact wet weather operations. 3. Coordination of MSDGC staff, other contractors/consultants/vendors, and subcontractors to mitigate system failures and maximize system uptime. 4. Training of staff and operators on the use of the Wet Weather SCADA system. | |
| Task 2: Wet Weather SCADA System Administration | $170,000 |

| Task 3: Wet Weather SCADA Integration | $195,000 |
| <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Integration of the SSO 700 Storage and Treatment Facility into the Wet Weather Facility permitting full two-way communications and selected remote control functionality of the facility, including migration and modification of existing iFIX screens. 2. Integration of up to 100 new sewer monitors planned for the Mill Creek Basin into the Wet Weather SCADA System including the necessary updates to watershed iFIX screens. | |

3. Integration of up to 40 rain gage stations across the MSDGC Service Area into the Wet Weather SCADA System including the necessary updates to sewershed iFIX screens.

Task 4: Operational Optimization Algorithms

$450,000

1. Achievement of “sewershed-level” optimization of the SSO 700 Storage and Treatment Facility through deployment of new operational control strategies that optimize its operations based on all data available in the sewershed.
2. Achievement of coordinated control of the assets in Mill Creek basin through deployment of new operational control algorithms that optimize the operations of the 4 RTCs and the SSO 700 Storage and Treatment Facility.

The detailed tasks and deliverables listed above will be accomplished by the lead consultant firm, CH2M Hill Engineers, Inc., and via the efforts of the three (3) sub-consultant firms listed in Exhibit C.
